Interested parties within the proposed Eastside San Joaquin Groundwater Sustainability Agency (ESJ GSA) management area, determined pursuant to Water Code section 10723.2, include:

(a) Holders of overlying groundwater rights, including:

There are no known managed environmental uses of water within the proposed jurisdictional boundary of the GSA.

(f) Surface water users, if there is a hydrologic connection between surface and groundwater bodies.

There are no known surface water users that make diversions from surface water bodies that have a hydrologic connection with groundwater.

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (New Hogan Reservoir)

(h) California Native American Tribes.

(i) Disadvantaged communities, including, but not limited to, those served by private domestic wells or small community water systems.

A review of the Department of Water Resources' Disadvantaged Communities Mapping Tool shows that there are no disadvantaged communities within the proposed ESJ GSA management area.

However, it is almost certain the disadvantaged communities exist within the ESJ GSA management area. Given the rural nature of the proposed ESJ GSA, these communities may not be accurately reflected in prior census data. The ESJ GSA will work toward identifying and addressing the interests of disadvantaged communities within its management area.

(i) Entities listed in Section 10927 that are monitoring and reporting groundwater elevations in all or a part of a groundwater basin managed by the GSA.

The Calaveras County Water District and Stanislaus County serve as California Statewide Groundwater Elevation Monitoring entities for certain subareas of the Eastern San Joaquin subbasin.
